

Black Cat: Preview

Copyright © 2017 by Ibidun

All rights reserved. This book or any portion thereof may not be reproduced or used in any manner whatsoever without the express written permission of the publisher except for the use of brief quotations in a book review or scholarly journal.

First Printing: 2017

ISBN: 978-1-387-39609-2

Lulu Press

3101 Hillsborough St, Raleigh, NC 27607

www.lulu.com

Introduction

In a distant city, somewhere on Earth, there was a girl who was walking down the street. She was a simple girl, the right size for her age. She was an innocent girl, just doing her business. Her business was walking to her destination, and for doing an important and special task.

She was just walking, minding her own business, and going to disrupt somebody else's business. It was her business also, and all the other things she did was disrupting other people's business, and it was all her business.

It was her job, really. She has nothing else to do. She figured out that she had a calling for this job a long time ago. It was like magic in front of her. The magic chosen her and gave itself to her, and she accepted the magic and claimed it as her own.

It seemed like a cool job by the looks, but once a person looks deep enough, it isn't really a promising job at all, and this girl doesn't seem to mind. She dived in and understood everything. She even got a good companion by her side to do the job, a helpful companion that will do personal favors to her partner. It seems like she wants to get business going, in this big, and disastrous city, already developing chaos and filled with red skies.